MEDICAL LEGAL CONSULTING

Our board certified physicians provide pre-litigation support services for personal injury cases. This includes analysis of the medical issues of your case with subsequent medical opinion reports for pre-litigation and pre-settlement preparation.

Our services include:

Medical Record Chronology:

We can provide a detailed synopsis of the plaintiff's case presented in sequential order with a referenced timeline of pertinent events.

Medical Case Review and Opinion Reports:

Pre-litigation analysis supported by medical literature research, to evaluate the case for merit, identify strengths and weaknesses in the medical records, determine the validity of pre-existing conditions, and identify facts that predict health outcomes. We can provide a brief preliminary review as well as a more thorough analysis as follows:

Preliminary review:

A preliminary review of the medical records to help decide case merit, with a 1-2 page written medical opinion of the injury (no references/details).

Full report:

A medical opinion report in detailed format with references and citations that addresses causation, mechanism of injury, pre-existing conditions, standard of care, functional losses, ongoing medical problems, prognosis, and future medical care needs. Includes a virtual medical interview with your client.

IME Rebuttal Reports:

A review of the IME medical record, virtual medical interview with your client, and written medical opinion about the IME evaluation with citations from the medical literature.

Specific Questions:

Answers to your specific medical questions about your client's unique clinical presentation, for example, "Can diabetes be triggered by a head injury? Can blunt trauma to the abdomen cause acute appendicitis? Can a low-impact vehicle crash cause a mild-TBI?" We research your questions and render medical opinions backed by science.

Liaison with Treating Physicians

If you encounter challenges in communicating with your client's treating physicians, we offer doctor-to-doctor calls, including virtual meetings, to ensure your questions are answered. We can also facilitate your requests for written statements from the treating physicians.

Deposition Preparation:

We identify the key medical facts in your case and formulate appropriate witness questions.

Deposition Attendance:

We can provide table-side deposition assistance. We do not testify as medical experts.
